

The Association for Sandplay Therapy

... loving kindness, clarity & humility in the practice of Sandplay

Website Has New Look

AST has been rebuilding and updating its website. We thank our members for their patience during the last few months if you have experienced some glitches or difficulties. It is up and running and we are hopeful we have all the "new bugs" removed. Be sure to check out the Directory to make sure your information is correct. If there are changes or updates needed, please contact Rose.

Membership Renewal Time

It's July! That means it's time to renew our AST membership. In addition to the latest AST information, members are listed on the directory, so clients can locate you. This year, members will receive discounts for trainings, access to international trainers, and networking with others across the world.

Go to the webpage, then About Membership, then Applications. Each person will fill out a new application, even if you have been a member before. This is part of our new website program that allows us to keep in touch with members better. THANK YOU!

Social Media Expert: Stephanie Idalski

Stephanie Idalski has volunteered to be AST's social media expert. She will be posting regularly on Facebook and Instagram, keeping us update on facts, trainings, and interesting tidbits. If you have items you would like posted, please contact Stephanie.

Stephanie is a MAST member living and practicing in Buffalo, Wyoming, USA. Thank you, Stephanie!

SAVE the DATE!

AST's International Conference September 12-19, 2021

This year, AST chose to cancel its 2020 International Conference at Kruger National Park, South Africa, due to Covid-19. We have rescheduled for 2021, and all members are invited to attend. In addition to extensive Safari trips, members will have the opportunity to hear from key speakers, view casework, and engage in group and individual consultation. It's the trip of a lifetime!
